

Reading

Students will read a variety of fiction and nonfiction text, including books, newspaper and magazine articles, short stories, poems and Internet resources. Our goal is to develop strategic readers who think while they read, ask questions, make inferences, visualize the information, and make personal connections to the text. Students are expected to read quality literature nightly.